

This is obviously a political infomercial which is designed to help Bush win the election by reducing support for Kerry. How would Bush supporters react, if a media company run by liberals were to order TV stations it owns to show Fahrenheit 9-11 commercial free just days before the election?